ACCESSIBILITY AT THE POLLING PLACE

By Mike Cooney, Secretary of State

One of the basic principles of our government is that everyone has the right to participate in the making of decisions by exercising their right to vote. Here in Montana we are lucky to consistently have one of the highest voter turnout rates in the nation. But we continue to look at ways to make sure more people get involved.

How we vote, or even if we choose to vote, is a personal matter that each of us must decide for ourselves. However, no person should be denied the right to vote because of obstacles that prevent or discourage their participation in the election process. The State of Montana has taken a strong stand to ensure that all citizens are able to cast their ballots.

Before any polling place can be used, the county election administrator or made an on-site survey of the location to determine its accessibility. They test the polling place by following the actual route an elector would take when going to vote and determining if it meets the Uniform Federal Accessibility Standards criteria and the Administrative Rules written by the Secretary of State.

Whenever possible, polling places chosen must be accessible or made accessible by election day. The law requires that the list of the county polling places be published in the newspaper before each election. Included in this notice must be the accessibility rating for each precinct.

If a person with a disability or elderly voter is assigned to an inaccessible polling place, he or she has several alternatives. These include:

- Voting by absentee ballot - If a person is physically unable to go to the polls, they may, by written request to their county election administrator, ask that they be sent an absentee ballot. For this year's November 7th municipal elections, a voter may request an absentee ballot from August 24 until noon of November 6th, but remember to leave time for mail delivery. Additionally, if you do not wish to go to the election administrator's office personally or have the ballot mailed to you, you may designate, on your application, someone to pick up the ballot for you.

- Assignment to a different polling place - Voters may notify the county election administrator in writing, at least seven days before the election, that they would like to be assigned to a nearby accessible polling place. Even though they may go to a different precinct to vote, they will still be voting their own precinct's ballot.

- "Curbside voting" - A last alternative is "curbside voting" where two appointed election judges take a ballot to a voter who has come to the voting location, but cannot enter the building. The election judges, by law, cannot reveal how that person voted to protect each voter's right to a secret ballot. To vote with "curbside voting" a person with a disability should contact the county election administrator before election day to work out the necessary arrangements.

As Secretary of State, I am responsible for establishing guidelines for the counties to follow to make voting as easy as possible. The rules established by this office require that each polling place must have instructions for

MILP HIRES ADA SPECIALIST

A VIEW FROM THE BOARD

By Sylvia Stevens

*"Who is sylvia, what is she?
Unto her let garlands be."*

That is a line from a poem William Shakespeare wrote about me. But he didn't know that I spell by name 'Sylvia' though.

I have been involved with MILP since 1981. I was on the Advisory Council that was operating at that time under Sister Kennedy. I was in the first Peer Counseling training group, have been involved with the Handicapped Awareness Week trips to schools to talk about being handicapped and now am on the MILP Board of Directors.

Work, church, and other activities keep me away from the new home that I designed with me in mind. The counters are 32" from the floor, the oven is wall-mounted, and the pantry is everything that I dreamed for. Now, I have a few finishing touches that will keep me busy for many years, I am sure. I heard that once you have a house, there are continual repairs, additions, and odds and ends that keep a person busy.

I have worked at the Office of Public Instruction for eleven years now. I send out money to schools for their lunch and breakfast programs and vocational education programs. Computers are great to work on, when they are working!

MILP welcomes back former staff person, Les Clark. Les has accepted the position of ADA Specialist for the statewide Community Options Projects. This is a statewide project built upon partnerships between Montana Vocational Rehabilitation, the Montana Independent Living Council, and the four Montana centers for independent living. It is a collaborative project designed to initiate and expand employment opportunities by promoting the intent of the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) of 1990.

The program will assist individuals with disabilities who are currently eligible for Vocational Rehabilitation/Visual Services (VR/VS) services and those individuals with disabilities who were previously eligible for VR/VS services and are at risk of losing their job.

The Community Options Project's goals are to improve the ability of professionals, consumers, and employers to work in a cooperative partnership to enhance the quality of vocational rehabilitation services and job and career opportunities for individuals with disabilities. It will support the provision of training and technical assistance to consumers, VR/VS counselors, job placement professionals, job coaches, and employers regarding the implementation of the ADA.

The Montana Department of Public Health and Human Services, Vocational Rehabilitation Division is providing funding for this Innovation and Expansion project.

Welcome aboard Les!

DOMME REPORTS ON DPHHS REORGANIZATION

The 1995 State Legislature passed legislation which combined several state agencies into one agency. This legislation was designed to make these agencies and programs more efficient, effective, and user friendly.

With the passage of this legislation, which became effective July 1, 1995, a new department called Department of Public Health and Human Services (DPHHS) was formed. It will include programs from Corrections and Human Services, Family Services, Health, and Social and Rehabilitation Services. Governor Racicot chose Dr. Peter Blouke, former director of the Department of Social and Rehabilitation Services, to head the new department.

Since the new department will be the largest in state government, consolidate many existing agencies and programs, and effect over 3000 state employees, Blouke appointed an Advisory Council to assist in the organization/reorganization of DPHHS. This Advisory Council will examine and explore many ideas, approaches, concepts, and attitudes in forming and make recommendations to Blouke for his decision on the department.

The Council is made up of 33 members from around the state and represents groups, programs, and others which will be affected by the reorganization and development of DPHHS. Pat Domme, former President of the Board of Directors and Board member of MILP was chosen to serve on this Advisory Council. Domme is the only member of the Council who has a disability.

Domme states that it is surprising how many people with disabilities use the different programs in the new department. It is Domme's plan to try to represent the concerns of people with disabilities during this reorganization process and to make the voice of the disability community heard during the adoption of policies and procedures at DPHHS. Domme, who is blind, invites any comments, questions, or concerns.

Domme reports that, currently, the committee is working on drafting a mission statement for DPHHS and has looked at some suggested organizational charts. He also states that the monthly meetings held since July 26th, have been informative ones with much information being brought forward from the many programs and the employees group in the new department. Blouke has informed the group that programs and funding will not be affected or changed by this reorganization and charged the group with the task of bringing all the agencies and programs together in a effective workable department. The Advisory Council has identified many points of interest including the need for a single entry point and the sharing of information between agencies as important concepts to keep in mind during the discussions.

The DPHHS reorganization Advisory Council meets monthly, usually in the Montana Higher Education Building in Helena from 9:00 am to 3:30 PM. Arrangements are being made to facilitate satellite hookups to these meetings in the future. Upcoming meetings will be held October 25, November 29, and December 20, 1995.

To confirm meeting dates and locations, request an accommodation, or request further information about the DPHHS contact: Anastasia Burton, Public Information Officer, DPHHS, P.O. Box 4210, Helena, MT 59604-4210, Phone 406-444-2596 (voice) or Dr. Peter Blouke, Director, DPHHS, P.O. Box 4210, Helena, MT 59604-4210, Phone 406-444-5622 (voice) or call either person through the Relay Service.

If you have comments or suggestions about the reorganization of Montana human services and the new DPHHS, contact Pat Domme, 2724 Amherst Ave., Butte, MT 59701, Phone 406-494-4571.

ADA CHECKLIST UPGRADE...

Do you want to check to see if your office or facility complies with the Americans with Disabilities Act Accessibility Guidelines (ADAAG)? Version 2.1 of the ADA Checklist for Existing Facilities has recently been released and is now easier to use than ever! This practical 15-page guide gives direction on determining barriers in existing facilities and explains the process for planning "readily achievable" barrier removal.

CALL ME AGAIN

My name is Jeanne and I answer informational requests about assistive technology here at MILP. Considering the number of things I am asked about, it's not unusual that once in a while I am unable to answer a question, even after some in-depth research. Sometimes what seems like a simple request, both by the caller and by me, turns out to be difficult or impossible to fulfill.

For instance, it's easy to find a talking clock. They come in a myriad of shapes with beeps and crows as alarms. But what if you're looking for a talking clock that also tells you what day it is? Because you know about clocks, you check catalogs and lists for clocks and none of them tell you the day. You don't even think to look for a talking calendar until you see one in a catalog. Well just the other day, I found a talking calendar and it only costs $20.00.

You wouldn't think that a large-print address book for people with low vision would be hard to find until you start looking for one. It sounds like a simple request, but you have to remember that a business somewhere has to recognize a market, develop and manufacture a product, and offer it for sale. Then the offering has to get to the customer or, in this case, me, before I can tell anyone how to find it.

To assist me in my searches, I have a computer database with thousands of entries and a library full of hundreds of catalogs. I have to be able to call a product by its correct name to find it on the database and have to have hours of time to search through catalogs. As you can imagine, I sometimes fail to find what I'm looking for and often I don't whether or not it even exists. However, sometimes you just have to rely on serendipity. In mid-September, both the products mentioned above showed up in the same brand new catalog.

So...if you were one of my callers and still need the products, call me back and I'll put you in touch with the source. If you find that this article has reminded you of a need for a device that will make your life easier, give me a call and I'll see what's available. I've been working with assistive technology for over a year now and that alone should help me turn up better answers in less time.

voting and registering displayed in large print. In addition, each polling place must have a table not higher than three feet and with room to accommodate a wheelchair in a location that will guarantee the same secrecy as the regular polling booths.

As least one stylus or writing implement with a large, easily graspable handle must be at each location as well. The election judges must have extra seating available so that elderly voters can sit down and rest while they are waiting to vote.

For those with hearing impairments, I have installed a Telecommunications Device for the Deaf (TDD) at 406-444-4732 to get election information during regular business hours.

I strongly believe that everyone should take part in the election process. I have worked and will continue to work with the legislature and county election administrators to ensure that Montana's elections are fair and open for all to participate in. If your city or town is holding an election this year, you will be determining who will represent you in your local government. Elections are your opportunity to express your opinion.

If you have questions on this or any election matter, feel free to contact :

- 1) your county election administrator,
- 2) the Secretary of State's office at 444-4732, or
- 3) any of the four Montana independent living centers:

Billings-Living Independently for Today and Tomorrow at 259-5181 or 1-800-669-6319;

Great Falls-North Central Independent Living Services at 452-9834 or 1-800-823-6245;

Helena-Montana Independent Living Project at 442-5755 or 1-800-735-6457; or Missoula-Summit Independent Living Center at 728-1630 or 1-800-398-9002.

If you have any suggestions or comments on how to make elections more accessible, please give me a call or drop me a note. I think we have an excellent system in Montana, but I am always looking for ways to improve it!

HAPPY 5TH BIRTHDAY ADA! JULY 26, 1995

WALLS

By Sally Christie

Disabilities come in many forms. The people affected by them are unique. Some are born with disabilities. Other challenges are brought about by life-style choices, such as poor diet, hard work, and other things. Some acquire their handicaps through accidents and many other Americans age into this minority.

The walls that exclude people with disabilities are diverse and unique. Some walls are physical in nature while others are made of stronger stuff. The barrier walls of attitude are the hardest to overcome.

I didn't choose my disability or have an accident. I was born with a skeletal disorder. My family included me in all aspects of life. The walls of my home were inclusive.

My disability affected my family in many ways. An employer could fire my father if he took extra time off to visit me in the hospital. My mother could be refused employment if someone suspected she would need time off to take care of me. My brothers and sisters had to endure teasing at school. The walls they scaled were high and wide.

I could be refused admission to theaters, restaurants, schools, and many other places. Architectural and attitude barriers kept me from many jobs I was qualified to do. The walls put up by employers were exclusive.

There was no legal way my family or I could climb the walls. We were members of a minority without civil rights.

"Let the shameful walls of exclusion finally come tumbling down." said George Bush as he signed the Americans with Disabilities Act into law. The ADA would affect nearly every American. It is a civil rights

A VIEW FROM THE MILP BOARD

By Jim Nys, Vice President

I recently attended the White House Conference on Small Business in Washington, D.C. The Conference was a gathering of some 1700 small business owners who were elected to represent small business in their home states. A great deal of attention was focused on how regulators have changed the original intent of laws by the manner in which the law is enforced on a day-to-day basis. The unfortunate result is that much of the original political support that caused the law to be enacted in the first place then erodes and results in the law being either weakened or repealed.

One of the many proposals considered by the delegates to the Conference was one which read:

"Congress should repeal or rewrite the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) because its provisions are undefined, complex, and too reliant on the judicial process for interpretation creating added costs and uncertainty for business owners."

Of the 14 Montana delegates, only I voted against this proposal. When discussing the preliminary vote, other delegates cited examples that could easily be summarized as overzealous regulation as the reason for their position.

Even though I voted against the proposition, in my business as a personnel consultant I have observed numerous incidents in which individuals discharged by employers have tried to challenge the action based on the ADA. In one recent case, for example, a management employee who admitted to illegal cocaine use in the workplace is challenging his dismissal as a violation of the ADA. In another case, a person is challenging a dismissal based on dishonesty claiming the employer terminated her because it did not wish to accommodate a temporary sore wrist. The documentation submitted by the employees' own physician at the time stated there were no restriction on her work. Yet she is, in my view, manipulating the system to challenge a decision that had nothing to do with any alleged disability.

The results of these challenges are employers who are far less supportive of the ADA than they previously were. An often stated comment is "If this is what the ADA is all about, we can do without it." Although I believe both employers will ultimately prevail, they will spend countless hours and dollars proving the claims to be meritless. The employee, on the other hand, has nothing to lose; they don't even have the expense of hiring an attorney since the compliance agencies do all the work. Such problems also fueled lively debates about adopting a European-based "loser pays" system which would further erode the rights of persons with disabilities to bring charges of discrimination where such charges are bona fide.

The enactment of the American's with Disabilities Act was a milestone for the rights of persons with disabilities. As we near the fifth anniversary of its signing, we must be vigilant to ensure that enforcement of the law is in accordance with the intent of its framers and that common sense prevails.

NETWORKING HELPS MEET ASSISTIVE TECHNOLOGY GOALS

What is assistive technology?

- Mechanical, electronic and computer-based equipment, including wheelchairs, computers, electronic speaking and hearing devices, and other sophisticated equipment.

- Non-mechanical and non-electronic aids such as a ramp to replace steps or modified silverware to help someone eat.

- Specialized instructional materials, services and strategies such as large print for people with visual impairments.

And when you need something, how do you get it?

- You network!

But, you're not part of a network and you wouldn't know how to go about joining one, right? Wrong! Do all your friends and acquaintances know each other? Chances are they don't, so you're probably a member of several networks already.

Networks are a part of life that help you meet your goals! There are all types of networks for all types of reasons: church, sports, children, education, health care. They all present opportunities to form networks.

And what do networks do?

- Put you in touch with people who know people who know what you want to know.

Let's try that again. You need to know something, find something, or get something, and you don't know how. Then you start asking questions of everyone you know: "Who do you know who can help me understand, find, or get?"

Sometimes, the hardest part of networking is defining your need or asking the question in the right way so people can understand what you are looking for. This requires work and documentation on your part. You usually begin with general background information and work up to more specific information - the details you are looking for.

Is there an assistive technology network in Montana?

- Yes!

Montana's Independent Living Centers (ILCs), Parents Let's Unite for Kids (PLUK), and Action for Eastern Montana are the basis for your network. Each agency has staff trained to provide information and services to help people with disabilities find their way through the maze of information out there; understand social service programs and how to apply for services; and understand their options when services have been denied.

These agencies are part of a network of Access Cooperatives for Assistive Technology (ACATs) through the University of Montana's Rural Institute on Disabilities' MonTECH Program.

Who do I call for more information?

- Call the agency nearest you and ask for the assistive technology specialist.

OH, MY ACHING FEET! Tales of an ADA Surveyor...

By Jeanne Schutt

Over the last two and a half years, as the MILP ADA Survey Coordinator, I've surveyed almost three-quarters of a million square feet. Trooping through parking lots, in and out doors, up stairs, and down hallways, I've recorded on paper and video tape the physical conditions of businesses, schools, government and private office buildings, non-profits, and community centers. Seventy-five or 80 buildings...with that many it's hard to keep track.

But what's a building survey got to do with the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), a civil rights law? The ADA says that it's illegal to discriminate against people on the basis of disability. And how do we discriminate most often? Through our architecture... our built environment. People with disabilities cannot have equal access to goods and services if they can't get into a building where the goods and services are offered.

Now, getting back to all of those buildings, I have to admit that I didn't survey the whole 3/4 million square feet by myself. I had a lot of help...wheelchair users as well as able bodied folks...MILP staff members and other interested persons...all trained in the art of observing and measuring in accordance with checklists developed by the ATBCB otherwise know as the Access Board. Their 26 survey forms cover just about any physical space or feature of a building that you can think of, as well as the parking lot and the pathways leading to the designated accessible entrance(s).

What I have done by myself is prepare the written reports of the survey results. Whew! That's a lot of time in front of a computer but a written report is part of the package an agency or business gets when they pay MILP to do an accessibility survey. These written reports are the basis for a compliance or implementation plan that takes you from barriers to accessible. They identify barriers and suggested ways to "fix" those barriers.

We wish all barriers could be eliminated by waving a magic wand. But in existing buildings that have barriers such as steps, narrow halls and doors, small bathrooms, etc., we recommend a step-by-step approach. Do what you can afford now. Plan for the long term. Talk to your accountant about tax breaks. Revise your implementation plan at least once a year and absolutely when you renew your lease, your financial picture changes, or you remodel or expand your business.

To find out more details about the ADA or accessibility surveys, call MILP and ask to talk to me, Jeanne Schutt, at 442-5755 or 800-735-7457.

AROUND AND ABOUT OUR REGION...

ADA In Dillon...

One of the nice things that ADA is doing here in Dillon is making Western Montana College of the University of Montana accessible to "handicapable" students. An elevator is being installed to get to the classrooms and auditorium.

Five stars have to go to Quality Supply and manager, Brian Demars, for having a large store that has electric eye doors, and restrooms with grab bars. I recommend them for an ADA Award!

Anyone interested in vacationing in National Parks anywhere in the United States, there is a book called Access to National Parks. It talks about all the parks that are wheelchair accessible, etc. There is also a video tape available by the same name, Access to National Parks. These are available from the National Park Service or from your local book store. If you can't find them locally, you can order by calling the following: For the book, call 1-800-990-7274 (Cost is $16.00 plus postage); For the video, call 1-800-633-5633 (Cost is $19.95 plus $4.50 shipping and handling).

ADA in Helena...

My compliments to JC Penney's in Helena where both the employers and employees have tried very hard to make my job more accessible for me. Employers need to be more aware of the benefits they obtain when hiring a disabled person. Just because we have a disability does not mean we are disabled!

law that represents America's commitment to full and equal opportunities for all citizens.

In the five years since Congress passed this law, many "walls of exclusion" have come down. Some toppled down while others had to be chipped at. A few walls have refused to move. Others have been reinforced. The progress has been slow, but there has been progress.

I am glad my children have been born into a world with fewer barriers. My family and friends enjoy new civil rights.

It doesn't matter how you became challenged. If you have a disability or are a family member or friend, you have civil rights. Speak up for yourself if those rights are violated. Acknowledge the walls that include you. It is your world to enjoy and it has been a long time coming.

STOP HOUSING DISCRIMINATION

Fair Housing Centers

Federal and state laws protect individuals from housing discrimination. These laws make it illegal to deny a dwelling to any person due to: age, race, religion, physical or mental disability, gender, marital status, and family status (children under age 18 who live in your household). The first laws prohibiting discrimination date back to post Civil War years. But even today there are still significant discrimination problems.

Discrimination may be direct but more often it is subtle. If you suspect discrimination, and have questions or need information, call Marcia Dias at the Helena Fair Housing Center at 442-5506. Other Montana locations are: Billings, 256-9988; Great Falls, 727-9136; and Missoula, 542-2611.

Montana Human Rights Commission

Located in Helena, the Montana Human Rights Commission is the state agency which enforces Montana's discrimination laws. The Commission consists of five persons and employs a staff to investigate complaints of discrimination.

The Commission Staff: accepts discrimination complaints, conducts impartial investigations of the complaints, attempts early resolution of each case, provides technical assistance and advice concerning discrimination law, and litigates housing cases in district court when substantial evidence exists that discrimination has occurred. For more information, contact the Montana Human Rights Commission at 444-2884 in Helena or 1-800-542-0807.

A VIEW FROM THE BOARD

By Jim Hosking

I would like to introduce myself as the Chairperson of the Board of Directors of Montana Independent Living Project (MILP). I hope to continue The View from the Board Column in future issues of FOCUS to give readers an opportunity to get to know the MILP board.

I have been involved in disability issues since college in the 1970s. My current community and disability involvements include: Access Montana, a disabled advisory board to the Deer Lodge National Forest; People Count Network, a group established to provide information on disabilities within our company and community; the Butte-Silver Bow Chamber of Commerce, as a member of the tourism committee; a member of the Local Energy Share Committee for Southwest Montana and, of course, Montana Independent Living Project Board.

My employer for the past sixteen years has been Montana Power Co. I am the Customer Service Supervisor for Western Region, Butte Office. I do Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) accessibility surveys for company facilities and make recommendations to meet ADA Accessibility Guidelines. This is a rather small part of my duties although it is probably the most interesting. The major portion of my job involves the supervision of eleven customer service representatives in the Butte office.

My job as Chairperson of MILP's Board of Directors is challenging. I feel that we must remain open to clients' needs. I will strive to maintain services to our clients at the highest level possible.

This spring, Karen Beddow, Independent Living Specialist, and Les Clark, Program Manager of the Robert Wood Johnson (RWJ) grant project, left MILP to pursue other areas of interest. Karen was responsible for client services in Gallatin, Meagher, Park, Sweetgrass, and Wheatland Counties. Les completed the final phase of the RWJ grant project in February.

We'll miss Karen and Les and we wish them well in future endeavors.

GROUP PLANS ACCESSIBLE HOUSING IN HELENA

A group, headed by Helenans, Judy Backa and Ralph Anderson, is leading efforts to build accessible housing in Helena. The planned apartments, called Queen City Estates, will be for people with mobility impairments who seek an alternative to institutional care. The group is requesting funding through the U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

The apartments would be built by Accessible Space, Inc., (ASI), a private nonprofit organization working on accessible housing since 1978. ASI now nationally provides accessible housing and attendant care and services to 390 low-income adults with severe mobility impairments and/or traumatic brain injuries in 13 residential homes and 323 apartments.

Here in Montana, the ASI apartment building already in service is Eagle Watch Estates in Missoula. Last September, ASI received a HUD reservation for a 25-unit complex in Billings. This spring, ASI-Great Falls Mobility Impaired Housing will be breaking ground for a second apartment complex called Southwinds Estates.

The ASI apartments will be much more economical than institutional care. Through a unique consortium of funding sources, ASI can provide housing and attendant care services at 26% to 42% below the cost of institutional living care. Funding for the apartments, operation of additional services, and building upgrades comes from a variety of sources including agencies, foundations, third-party payers, corporations, private donations and private-pay individuals.

Individuals with mobility impairments have three basic needs: accessible, affordable housing; twenty-four hour access to supportive care services to assist with daily needs; and accessible transportation to provide the necessary mobility to achieve the highest level of independence possible. Once these needs are met, new horizons can be explored including education and employment.

Queen City Estates in Helena is still in the planning stages and can use assistance. Monetary donations to support the project can be sent to: Brian Taylor, Norwest Bank, 350 North Last Chance Gulch, Helena, Montana 59601. For more information about the project, call Ralph Anderson at 406-449-8155 or Judy Backa at 406-442-3647.

LEGISLATIVE DAY - JANUARY 26 YOU'RE INVITED!

The Montana Consortium for Assistive Technology (MCAT) will sponsor Legislative Day activities on Thursday, January 26, 1995. There will be a Legislative training during the day and an evening reception for legislators, their spouses, and all others interested in the legislative process.

The legislative training workshop will be from 11:00 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. in Helena at a location to be announced. It is for people with disabilities, their families, and their advocates and is jointly sponsored by MCAT and MonTECH. The training will provide participants information on how the legislative process works and how to be more effective in expressing needs to the legislative body. Sign language interpreters and handouts in print and alternative formats will be available. From 3:00 p.m. to 5:30 p.m., workshop participants will have an opportunity to go to the Capitol and see the Legislature in action. Those who feel comfortable can use their new skills while meeting with their Legislator or participating in hearings that may be held that day.

The average cost for the training is $15.00 per person and includes written materials, transportation to and from the Capitol and the training site, and lunch. Workshop sponsors suggest that participants make a contribution of $5.00 to offset the costs of this training. A contribution of more than $5.00 is appreciated and a contribution of less than $5.00 still gets you in the door!

TO REGISTER AND FIND OUT THE WORK-

SHOP LOCATION, PLEASE CALL ROXIE AT 1-800-732-0323 BY JANUARY 23RD AT 4:00 PM. In Missoula, call 243-5676.

The Legislative Day reception will be held from 6:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. at the Cathedral of St. Helena. This reception for Legislators and their spouses will provide an informal time for Legislators to meet Montanans with disabilities and their advocates and wind up an "event-full" day.

LEGISLATIVE INFORMATION AVAILABLE

The 54th Legislative Session officially began on January 3, 1995. During the session, Representatives and Senators and their staff traditionally work a six-day week, work holidays, review hundreds of bills, and make decisions that affect all Montanans.

VOCATIONAL REHABILITATION CONDUCTS PUBLIC FORUMS

The Montana Vocational Rehabilitation Services Division (MVR) of the Department of Social and Rehabilitation Services, the Vocational Rehabilitation Advisory Council (VRAC), and the State Independent Living Council (SILC) will be conducting statewide public forums seeking comments on how services are offered.

MVR will be asking the questions "How have we been doing?" and "How can we do a better job?". This series of public forums will give Montana citizens an opportunity to tell MVR, VRAC, and SILC how they have been doing in providing vocational rehabilitation and independent living services and to provide suggestions to help them do a better job in the future. This information will be used to help develop the three-year MVR/SILC State Plans and Strategic Plan which are required by the federal Rehabilitation Act and its amendments. MVR and SILC value your input and comments in the long range planning process.

The federal Rehabilitation Act provides money to states to provide, expand, and improve independent living (IL) services, to develop and support statewide networks of centers for independent living, and to improve working relationships among other IL services in the state. In order for a state to participate in the federal programs, it must submit to the federal government a plan for the State independent living program and centers for independent living. The plan is written by the SILC and MVR. It is usually submitted once every three years. The State plan must conform with applicable statutory and regulatory requirements in order to receive funding. Independent Living plans and activities are centered around the provisions outlined in the State Plan. The State Plan serves as a measurement of the State's performance in carrying out the assurances to which the state commits itself.

The forums, listed below, will be held in accessible locations and sign language interpreters will be provided. If you can't attend one of the meetings, you can send written comments to Vocational Rehabilitation Services Division, Box 4210, Helena, MT 59601.

For more information on the hearings or the planning process or to request a copy of the previous MVR/SILC State Plans or the Strategic Plan, call Bill Lamb at MVR in Helena at 444-2590.

STATE TRAILS EFFORT GETS STARTED

By Jeff Erickson
MT Dept. of Fish, Wildlife and Parks

Montana recently launched a process to develop a comprehensive, state-wide trails plan. The Plan will include an inventory of all public trails in Montana, assess attitudes about trails and trail use, and make recommendations about Montana's future trail system. Access issues are expected to be an important part of the Plan.

The Plan is intended to be Montana's first big-picture look at how the various trails in the state fit together. The initiative is not meant to usurp the responsibility of the various agencies who manage trails. The goal is to enhance the understanding trail managers and users have of the state's trail network and the demands being placed on it, in order to make wise long-range decisions.

Trail managers need to know who the trail users are, what they want, where they go, and when they like to use trails. This information will assist managing authorities to provide better service to trail users, and help everyone work together more efficiently, avoiding duplication and placing scarce resources where they are needed the most.

The Montana Department of Fish, Wildlife and Parks (FWP) is taking the lead staff role in developing the Plan. FWP staff are being assisted by a recently appointed technical planning committee and a representative has been appointed to speak for disabled access issues on the Committee. Along with the Planning Committee, the pre-existing State Trails Advisory Committee (composed of representatives from all major trail user groups) is expected to play a significant role in helping develop and review the Plan.

In addition to input from the Planning and Advisory Committees, a series of public meetings will be held around the state to provide information about the planning effort and gather public input. The more input received from trail users, the better the Plan is likely to be. If you have comments or questions about the Montana State Trails Plan effort, please contact:

ADA TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE AVAILABLE

The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) is a federal law that requires that all government programs and businesses that serve the public guarantee freedom from discrimination against people with disabilities. The first step in complying with ADA is identifying barriers that might keep people from being able to get into your building or access your services.

Montana Independent Living Project can help you comply with ADA by: providing answers to your questions, plans review for remodeling and new construction, accessibility surveys of buildings, and assistance with implementation and self evaluation plans. For more information, call Raelen Williard at MILP.

SPECIALISTS HELP FILL ASSISTIVE TECHNOLOGY NEEDS

Have you ever heard the phrase that goes something like this - "You may not realize that what you heard was not what I meant"? Well, Montana Independent Living Project (MILP) was recently the topic of a news release that left the readers with a bit of confusion about our assistive technology (AT) program. The story in question was published in many small-town newspapers, as well as the major dailies in our region, witnessed by calls we received from Townsend, White Sulphur Springs, Dillon, etc. Since the story was kind of misleading, we thought you'd like to know what it really means.

Because of a grant from the MonTECH program at the University of Montana, MILP can provide the following services:

Loan-Lease Equipment Services: MILP can arrange to loan different types of adaptive equipment for a period of up to three months to people with disabilities. Some equipment is housed in our offices in Helena and the remainder is located at various other Montana agencies who also cooperate in this effort. Most of the services are free, but some agencies do charge a fee. A few of the items located in Helena include: hand driving controls, a speaker phone, a personal PA system (assistive listening device for group presentations), a baby stroller designed specifically for infants with disabilities, and old, old computers.

Through this loan-lease program you can "try before you buy" or meet a short-term need. For instance, the hand controls were requested by a woman whose son was flying home for Christmas and wanted to be able to drive the family car while he was visiting.

The computers we have are reconditioned dual drive IBMs with limited memory and are available on a six-month loan. A word processing software is available, but printers are not available. A few of the computers have modems installed for access to your calls to bulletin boards and information services.

A few older Apple computers are also available. However, software that runs sophisticated programs, such as voice activated word processing, requires computers with much more memory and with an operating speed that far exceeds the computers donated to the program thus far. These computers are great for people learning to keyboard or who want to improve their typing accuracy or speed.

The loan pool includes: augmentative communication devices, speaking aids, aids for hearing, alerting systems, mobility or positioning aids, visual aids, daily living aids, and switches as well as computer hardware, software, and peripherals.

Information and Referral: This doesn't sound like much, but through this service MILP staff can help you in many different ways. We can help you: 1) put a name to what you need by providing descriptions of existing products, 2) tell you where you can buy them, and 3) sometimes even provide instructions for do-it-yourselfers. We do this with the aid of computer programs and a multitude of catalogs. We can also help you brainstorm how you can pay for the device(s) you need. This can be anything from identifying entitlement programs you might be eligible for to suggesting charitable sources or identifying loan programs that are designed specifically for people with disabilities.

If you would like more information, or you would like to borrow from or, yes, even donate to the Assistive Technology program, contact Jeanne Schutt at the MILP office.
